

Does Your Child Need to Check In, Check Up, and Check Back?

A child with special health needs may see many doctors. These doctors are very important for treating children with special health care needs. A child with special needs should also see their family doctor or Primary Care Provider (PCP) for a yearly check up. Check In with your child's PCP to get an exam each year.

If your child is under 21 and has TennCare, they should have a free health check up each year. They can also get other health services through the TENnderCARE program. Together, the doctors and the PCP can treat all of your child's health needs. Have your child Check Up with a PCP every year and for any new health needs during the year.

The TENnderCARE check up will cover:

- Health history
- Complete physical exam
- Lab tests (if appropriate)
- Immunizations
- Vision/hearing screening
- Developmental/behavioral screening (if appropriate)
- Advice on how to keep your child healthy

And remember to Check Back each year. Your child should see the PCP every year for a TENnderCARE exam. You can also take your child to see the PCP if any other problems come up in between check ups. Your child should also see their dentist every six months for a dental check up.
