Black History Month

Black History Month is a remembrance of important people and events in the history of the African diaspora. It is celebrated annually in the United States and Canada in February.

It was founded in 1926 by historian Carter G. Woodson as “Negro History Week” during the second week in February to coincide with the birthdays of abolitionist/editor Frederick Douglass and President Abraham Lincoln. Woodson was disturbed to find that history books from that period largely ignored the black American population and their American experience. He took on the challenge of writing black Americans into the nation’s history and to that end also founded the Association for the Study of African-American Life and History.

This observance was still called “Negro History Week” into the 1970s when it was renamed “Black History Week.” In 1976, it was changed to its current “Black History Month.” Canada officially recognized “Black History Month” in 1995.

Demographics

African-Americans make up 13.5 percent of the U.S. population. Including those of more than one race, the population estimate, as of July 1, 2008, is 41.1 million persons. This represents an increase of more than a half-million from the prior year. The projected population for July 2050 is 65.7 million (up to 15 percent of the total population).

There are 18 states in 2008 with an estimated black population of at least 1 million. They are Alabama, California, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. The only southern states not in this group are Arkansas and Kentucky. The African-American population was the largest minority in all the above states except for California, Florida, New Jersey, and Texas.

Other states where African-Americans were the largest minority included Arkansas, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin, and West Virginia.

The states with the largest percent of African-American population are Mississippi (38 percent), Louisiana (32 percent), Georgia (31 percent), Maryland (30 percent), South Carolina (29 percent), and Alabama (27 percent).

Black History Month in America

Fifty-six percent of the population in Washington, D.C., is African-American.

Population

There was a population increase of 67,000 in Georgia's black population between July 1, 2007, and July 1, 2008, which led all states. Texas (64,000), North Carolina (45,000), and Florida (41,000) also recorded large increases. At the county level, Orleans Parish, Louisiana, had the largest numerical increase in the black population between July 1, 2007, and July 1, 2008 (16,400).

Of the 77 majority-black counties or equivalents with total populations of at least 10,000, Claiborne County, Mississippi, had the largest percent of population that was black (84.4 percent). All 77 counties are in the South. Cook County (Chicago), Illinois, had the largest African-American total population with 1.4 million people.

Education & Income

Among blacks 25 and older, 83 percent had at least a high school diploma and 20 percent had a bachelor's degree or higher in 2008. There were 1.4 million African-Americans who had attained an advanced professional degree in 2008. In 1998, that number was only 857,000. The number of black college students has doubled in the last 15 years (currently 2.5 million students). There are more black military veterans (2.3 million veterans) than any other minority group.

There were 8.5 million single-race black family households in 2008. Sixty-three percent of these households contained a family, while 44 percent were married couples. Also, 44 percent lived in owner-occupied homes. There were 1.2 million grandparents that lived with their grandchildren (under 18 years old). One-half of these grandparents were responsible for the care of the grandchildren. The median income of African-Americans was $34,218, down 2.8 percent from 2007. Of this group, 24.7 percent were below the poverty level, while 19.1 percent lacked health care coverage.

Businesses

There were 1.2 million businesses owned by African-Americans in this country, of which 129,329 were in New York City alone (as of 2002). Of these businesses, 969 firms had more than 100 employees. African-American businesses accounted for 5 percent of all nonfarm business in the United States.

Voters

In 2008, there were 131.1 million voters that participated in the presidential election, up 5.4 million from 2004. Black voters accounted for 2.1 million of that increase and 16.1 million of the total voters. Black voters had a turnout rate of 65 percent, up 5 percent from the previous presidential election. Looking at voter turnout by race and Hispanic origin, non-Hispanic whites and blacks had the highest turnout levels. During this same election, the 18- to 24-year-old black population had a turnout rate of 55 percent, an 8 percent increase from 2004. Blacks had the highest turnout rate in this age group.

NONFARM EMPLOYMENT AND LABOR FORCE IN TENNESSEE

Total nonfarm employment decreased by 98,500 jobs from November 2008 to November 2009. During this period, there were large seasonal decreases in mining/construction (down 28,200 jobs); retail trade (down 10,200 jobs), which includes declines of 2,300 in both motor vehicle/parts dealers and general merchandise stores; transportation/warehousing (down 8,100 jobs), which includes a drop of 6,100 jobs in truck transportation; transportation equipment manufacturing (down 7,600 jobs); financial activities (down 7,500 jobs), which includes a decrease of 5,300 jobs in finance/insurance and 2,200 less jobs in real estate/rental/leasing; professional/business services (down 7,400 jobs), which includes a decline of 6,900 jobs in administrative/support/waste management; wholesale trade (down 5,000 jobs), which includes declines of 3,400 jobs in durable goods wholesalers and 1,900 jobs in nondurable goods wholesalers; and accommodation/food services (down 4,400 jobs), which includes a drop of 3,700 jobs in accommodation. This was partially offset by increases in health care/social assistance (up 7,500 jobs), which includes increases of 4,500 jobs in ambulatory health care services and 3,500 jobs in hospitals, combined with a 1,400 job decline in social assistance; federal government (up 1,500 jobs); and 1,100 more jobs in local government educational services.

During November, nonfarm employment increased by 8,700 jobs. The largest seasonal increases were in retail trade (up 7,300 jobs), which includes increases of 2,700 in general merchandise stores and 1,900 jobs in clothing/clothing accessories stores; professional/business services (up 1,800 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,500 jobs in professional/scientific/technical services; and health care/social assistance (up 1,300 jobs). This was partially offset by decreases in arts/entertainment/recreation (down 1,300 jobs), and mining/construction (down 1,000 jobs).

Tennessee's seasonally adjusted estimated unemployment rate for November 2009 was 10.3 percent, down 0.2 percent from the October rate. This is the 28th consecutive month that the current rate is greater than or equal to the national average.

The United States' unemployment rate was 10.0 percent in November 2009. In November 2008, the national unemployment rate was 6.8 percent, and the state's unemployment rate was 7.2 percent.

Across Tennessee, the unemployment rate decreased in 50 counties, increased in 36 counties, and remained the same in nine counties. There were 23 counties with an unemployment rate less than 10 percent but no counties had unemployment rates greater than 20 percent. The lowest rate occurred in Lincoln County at 6.7 percent, down 0.2 percent from the previous month. The highest rate was Lauderdale County's 18.6 percent, down from 18.8 percent in October 2009.

The data from all the nonfarm employment estimates tables include all full- and part-time nonfarm wage and salary employees who worked during or received pay for any part of the pay period that includes the 12th of the month. This is a count of jobs by place of work. Agricultural workers, proprietors, self-employed persons, workers in private households, and unpaid family workers are excluded. These numbers may not add due to rounding. Data is based on the 2008 benchmark.

Nashville MSA — Cannon, Cheatham, Davidson, Dickson, Hickman, Macon, Robertson, Rutherford, Smith, Sumner, Trousdale, Williamson, Wilson

Total nonfarm employment increased by 3,700 jobs from October 2009 to November 2009. There were seasonal increases in retail trade (up 2,600 jobs), which includes an increase of 700 jobs in general merchandise stores; professional/business services (up 900 jobs), which includes increases of 500 jobs in administrative/support/waste management and 400 jobs in professional/scientific/technical services; accommodation/food services (up 600 jobs), which includes an increase of 400 jobs in food services/drinking places; educational/health services (up 400 jobs); and non-durable goods manufacturing and wholesale trade (both up 200 jobs).

This was partially offset by losses in arts/entertainment/recreation (down 400 jobs), mining/construction (down 300 jobs), and durable goods manufacturing, other services, and federal government (each down 200 jobs).
