Last month's Labor Market Report featured an article on the annual average labor force information for the metropolitan statistical areas and the micropolitan statistical areas. The time period of this data was for 2002, 2003, and 2004.

This month, we are providing the same annual average information for the 95 Tennessee counties. Due to spatial concerns, data will only be available for the two most recent years: 2003 and 2004. Again, you can find this and more in-depth information online at www.state.tn.us/labor-wfd/AnnAvgEstimates.pdf

From 2003 to 2004, the unemployment rate increased in 24 counties, decreased in 64 counties, and remained the same in seven counties.

The largest unemployment rate change was Hancock County's increase from 6.8 percent in 2003 to 9.8 percent in 2004. This was due to a 30 percent increase in total unemployed combined with a sizable decrease in manufacturing workers.

There were six counties that had significant decreases in unemployment rates. They were Marshall County (down 2.7 percent), Scott County (down 2.2 percent), Giles and Smith counties (both down 1.7 percent), and Macon and White counties (both down 1.6 percent).

Marshall County had a decrease of 300 persons in both the total labor force and the unemployed. This was combined with a 50 percent increase in the professional/business services sector, causing the large drop in the unemployment rate.

Scott County had a decrease in the total number of unemployed persons. Scott also had an increase in employment in the manufacturing sector that helped lower that unemployment rate.

Smith County had a large decrease in the number of unemployed persons. Smith County is now part of the Nashville MSA. Its industry data are reflected in the Nashville MSA due to that redefinition.

Giles County had a large decrease in the number of unemployed persons and the total labor force. No industry changed dramatically.

White County had increased employment of about 200 persons. This increase was primarily in the service-providing industries.

Macon County had a large decrease in unemployed persons. Like Smith County, Macon is now a part of the Nashville MSA and its industry information is included in Nashville.

In 2004, the counties with the lowest unemployment rates were Williamson (3.3 percent), Knox and Rutherford (both at 3.9 percent), Blount and Sumner (both at 4.2 percent), and Cheatham (4.3 percent). The counties with the highest unemployment rates were Lauderdale (10.1 percent), Hancock (9.8 percent), Clay (9.1 percent), and Lawrence and Wayne (both at 8.7 percent).

In 2003, Williamson and Moore counties had the lowest rates at 3.4 and 3.7 percent, respectively. Lauderdale and Wayne counties had the highest rates at 10.6 and 9.8 percent, respectively.

Total nonfarm employment increased by 22,200 jobs from October 2004 to October 2005. During this period, there were increases in health care/social assistance (up 6,400 jobs), which includes increases of 3,400 jobs in ambulatory health care services and 1,600 jobs in hospitals; retail trade (up 6,000 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,900 jobs in general merchandise stores; local government (up 2,600 jobs); construction (up 2,200 jobs); wholesale trade (up 2,100 jobs), which includes increases of 1,100 jobs in wholesale electronic markets and 1,000 jobs in durable goods merchant wholesalers; financial activities (up 2,000 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,200 jobs in finance/insurance; and accommodation/food services (up 1,800 jobs), which includes an increase of 3,600 jobs in food services/drinking places and an 1,800 job decline in accommodation. This was partially offset by declines in information (down 1,900 jobs), state government educational services (down 1,100 jobs), food/beverage stores (down 1,000 jobs), and the previously mentioned decline in accommodation.

During October, nonfarm employment increased by 4,800 jobs. There were seasonal increases in local government educational services (up 4,700 jobs); retail trade (up 3,700 jobs), which includes increases of 2,600 jobs in general merchandise stores and 1,600 jobs in clothing/clothing accessories stores; and health care/social assistance (up 1,300 jobs). This was partially offset by a decline in accommodation/food services (down 3,600 jobs), which included drops of 2,100 jobs in food services/drinking places and 1,500 jobs in accommodation.

The data from all the nonfarm employment estimates tables include all full- and part-time nonfarm wage and salary employees who worked during or received pay for any part of the pay period that includes the 12th of the month. This is a count of jobs by place of work. Agricultural workers, proprietors, self-employed persons, workers in private households, and unpaid family workers are excluded. These numbers may not add due to rounding. Data are based on the 2004 benchmark.

Total nonfarm employment increased by 700 jobs from September to October. There were seasonal increases in transportation/warehousing/utilities (up 300 jobs) and educational/health services (up 200 jobs).

During the past 12 months, nonfarm employment increased by 2,300 jobs. During that time, goods-producing jobs declined by 200 while service-providing jobs increased by 2,500.
