Discovering Cures, in partnership with BIO and Life Science Tennessee, invites you to an important industry event.

The introduction of biosimilars and interchangeable biologics into clinical practice will present new treatment options for patients. In considering the complex nature of these products, current Tennessee rules on substitution will need to be updated to accommodate the entrance of biosimilar products into the marketplace.

Discovering Cures Tennessee believes that sound policy in Tennessee outlining parameters for safe substitution of interchangeable biologics is the best option to ensure patients have access to high-quality, safe and effective biologic medicines. We want a system to ensure transparency and the primacy of the physician-patient relationship, recognizing that physicians and their patients are in the best position to determine appropriate therapies.
