Per Capita Personal Income In Tennessee, MSAs, And Counties, 1999 to 2002

In Tennessee, the per capita personal income in 2002 was $27,611, up 2.6 percent from the previous year.

The Tennessee metropolitan counties had a per capita income of $29,720 in 2002. During the same time period, the non metropolitan counties had per capita personal income of $22,040.

Per capita personal income is the annual total personal income of residents divided by the resident population as of July 1. Personal income is derived by summing the net earnings by 'place of residence', person's rental income, personal dividend/ interest income, and transfer payments. Personal income is measured prior to deductions of income tax and other personal taxes and is reported in current dollars. In simpler terms. it is the total income on the front page of your 1040 tax form. This data can be influenced by large growth (or decline) in population, natural disasters (i.e., flooding or hurricanes), commuting populations (that primarily work in other counties), and state and local taxes.

In 2002, the counties with the highest per capita personal income were Williamson ($42,370), Davidson ($35,959), Shelby ($32,914), Hamilton ($30,572), Knox ($30,327), Wilson ($30,120), Sumner ($27,410), and Anderson ($27,100). Sumner, Anderson, and the remaining 87 counties are all below the state average. The lowest counties were Lake ($13,369), Hancock ($14,758), Wayne ($16,256), Johnson ($16,269), Scott ($17,270), Pickett ($17,541), and Lauderdale ($17,784).

The counties with the largest percent growth were Campbell (up 5.5 percent), Warren (up 5.3 percent), Rhea (up 5.2 percent), and Roane (up 5.1 percent). Counties with declining per capita income include Lake (down 0.9 percent), Lauderdale (down 0.6 percent), Fayette (down 0.5 percent), Moore (down 0.4 percent), and Williamson (down 0.1 percent). Sequatchie County remained unchanged from 2001 to 2002.

The urban and suburban counties that comprise the metropolitan statistical areas had a higher per capita personal income than their rural counterparts.

The Nashville MSA had a per capita income of $32,026 (up 1.8 percent) while the Memphis MSA had a per capita income level of $30,557 (up 2.4 percent). The lowest per capita income occurred in the Morristown MSA at $22,909. Clarksville had the highest growth rate for the past year (up 4.7 percent) and for the past four years (at 17.6 percent).
